REWARD UP TO $25,000 FOR RECOVERY OF STOLEN ANDY WARHOL PAINTINGS

The FBI announced today a reward of up to $25,000 for information leading to the recovery of artwork stolen from the Springfield Art Museum, 1111 East Brookside Dr., Springfield, Missouri. It is believed the break in and theft occurred sometime during the early morning hours on April 7, 2016, at which time seven of ten Andy Warhol paintings on permanent display at the museum were taken. The collection, which has been owned by the Springfield Art Museum since 1985, is Set number 31 of the Campbell's Soup I collection and is valued at approximately $500,000. Each painting in the screen print collection measures 37 inches high by 24.5 inches wide and are framed in white frames. Images of the stolen artwork are below.

The FBI is seeking the public's assistance in locating this stolen artwork. Anyone with information should contact the FBI Springfield, Missouri office directly at (417) 882-3303 or the Springfield Police Department TIPS line at (417) 869-TIPS. Additionally, individuals may contact their local law enforcement agency.

The FBI has a specialized Art Crime Team of special agents supported by special trial attorneys to recover stolen items and prosecute art and cultural property crime. The team investigates theft, fraud, looting, and trafficking across state and international lines. The FBI also runs the National Stolen Art File, a computerized index of stolen art and cultural properties that is used as a reference by law enforcement agencies worldwide.
